The right of John Marshall High School's students, faculty, and alumni to turn the pages and see Marshall's Freedom of Since student life does not and in a classroom, Marshall High School's students, faculty, and alumni have the freedom to participate in a variety of events. Plays, assemblies dances, senior pranks, and peptrallies all play an important part in a student's life.

FRIENDSHIPS RESUSCITATED

As the '75-'76 school year made its debut, the ordinarily boisterous halls were muffled by the uncertainties of opening day. New students, petrified by the school's enormity, staggered through the jungle of bodies, desperately searching for their classrooms as the more experienced Marshallites observed cooly, directing them to rooms such as 401.

September second was a day to resuscitate the friendships neglected during the brief vacation, reflect on and mourn the lost magic of summer, and look forward to the activities and rowdiness awaiting the daring in the upcoming bicentennial year.

SPIRIT WEEK LEADS WAY TO HOMECOMING

Unlike past years, a week of spirit highlighted the days preceding Homecoming This was shown by a spagetti eating contest and a tricycle race, with participants from all grade levels. As a Senior prank, the Seniors were attired in shorts and crazy socks. and after school on October 16, a power puff football game was played by the Senior girls. The cheers were led by the D-team squad, which was made up of Senior boys Another prank was the formation of a Kazoo Band, which met in front of the office and then proceded through the halls. This was the first spirit week held, but because of it success, it will be continued next year. Spirit week was not only the pranks and contests, but also consisted of a pep rally, with the Senior Band and Drill Team performing. There was also the first court Poka dance, which was held on stage after the introduction of the King and Queen.

No Homecoming is complete without the traditional football game and halftime ceremonies, which were completed with a special birthday song for Mr. George Homecoming '75 was a start of many firsts, among these were the serving of refreshments at the dance, the selling of Homecoming necklaces, and a first time seventh grade float. There was alot of hard work done to make Homecoming a success and credit must go to Mrs. Clements, faculty chairman, Fil Clissa, band chairman, Sandy Schroeder, student chairman, and the many others.

Students arrived to school exhausted from weeks of preparation, but the rowdiness of Homecoming soon emerged from hibernation. "Hey, look us over..." could be heard for miles as enthusiastic Eagle fans marched their way to the game at Custer Stadium. Observers gaped in awe as the winning senior float strolled proudly

STUDENTSSPOTLIGHTED

During the time of equality and liberation, what would be more approprite than a woman president? Jodi St. John was that woman, elected senior class president, a first for the school. Jodi spent her time planning the various activities (often times crazy) associated with the senior class. Besides having been president for a year, she also headed the blood drive. was associate editor for the newspaper, played on the soccer team, and devotedly stayed after school in her junior year painting posters for the Pep Club.

In this world there are givers and takers, doers and followers: to find a combination of any two is rare! Sandy Schroeder, who was better known as "Sparky" to her friends, because of her enthusiasm, was a person who knew how to give of herself in the many activities both in and out of school, and took advice to better these. Dance decorations and festivities fell into place under her watchful eye as did Homecoming of '75, Turn-A-Bout and Prom of '76. With so much work, you'd think she was too busy for much else, but Sandy also worked as Seniors Editor on the yearbook, P.A. announc-

SUPER HEROS DO SUPER CAPERS

The growling stomachs were quieted and the frayed nerves calmed by the personal attention and delicious cuisine provided by Mrs. Bernadene Phillips and the HERO club.

In Marshall's history, special occasions often lacked that extra flair which food and charming hostesses provide. Mrs. Phillips and the Home Economics Related Occupation club (HERO) have decided to change all of that. This year a special banquet was provided for famished athletes at Thanksgiving, featuring the traditional turkey. Other activities which the HERO club promoted were coffee and doughnuts for teachers, bake sales, a luncheon for the faculty, and serving refreshments at Homecoming and Prom.

On October 28th, Marshall opened its doors to those in search of the true meaning of school. This truth was found not only through the educators, but also in the activities and clubs available for interested students.

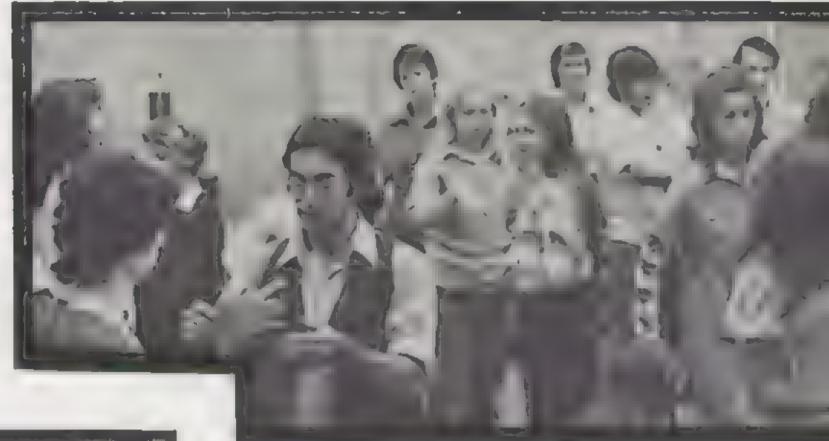

Upon entering the gyms, many hearts began to beat with the rhythm of the talented drill team, or throb intensely as athletes performed. In the band rooms could be heard the melodious sounds of the instrumental groups, while art and industrial rooms overflowed with masterpieces. Course offerings in each department were displayed in imaginative ways, proving the night to be educational as well as enjoyable.

"SWEET LOVE OF MIME"

RIGHT: This is what someday could be the best store window mannequins! BELOW: William's Doil was a story about a little boy who, unlike most his age, played with doils. It spoke to the audience about role playing in our lives

The Wisconsin Mime Company was invited to perform at our school on a crisply brown and gold fall day. Coming far from their home base in Spring Green, Wisconsin, they anticipated a large audience of screaming teenagers, a group full of enthusiasm.

Mime is known as a silent form of drama. No words or scripts are ever needed unless for a background on the act to be shown. The actors need great body control, as every emotion and idea they express is through movements of the arms, legs or face muscles.

They were well received by giggles and laughter as each of their skits unfolded to express such life-like situations as a teenager's first love, and what was hoped to be shown; that freedom of expression doesn't necessarily depend upon words.

RIGHT: "A person needs great control of their muscles to be a good mimist." In this picture our guests demonstrate how to hold a pose to a Humanities class. When interviewed, Geoff Benson, 12, said, "It started off as a joke, but the teacher liked the idea." The trip was different because both teacher and students dressed up to represent their favorite historical character.

Jan Jesowshek, 11, stated, "People were really interested in what we were doing! They asked questions and there was a lot of coverage." Jeanne Marquardt, also a Junior, said that in her opinion, "People were rude and made jokes about Halloween being over." OUR TOWN

John Marshall High School paid a visit to Grover's Corners, New Hampshire on November 14th and 15th, the scene of the play Our Town by Thorton Wilder. Viewers needed to utilize their imaginations, as the play, put together by Mr. Bielenberg, had few props. Two ladders and tables represented the homes of next door neighbors George Gibbs (played by Tom Kaul) and Emily Webb (Barb Marciniak). The two teenagers fell in love, and were wed after a few years' romance. After Emily died in childbirth, the scene was transferred to that of a graveyard. The white-faced inhabitants of the tombs were shown sitting in chairs, side by side, as a clammy feeling swept over the audience. Once Emily returned from reliving her twelfth birthday, she realized an important aspect of life live your life to the fullest, for there is no returning after death

In early December, a month after the play was presented, playwrite Thorton Wilder passed away to look back on his own life.

STUDENTS AND FACULTY BUMP

On November 21st, in the senior gyms, the class of '76 proved to the faculty and spectators what doing the bump was all about. The all-star cast of seniors slaughtered the faculty team two out of three volleyball matches, displaying their ability while having a good time. Approximately one hundred and nine dollars was raised for the student council scholarship fund. Those interested in witnessing the feat were admitted for thirty-five cents, a small price for the enjoyment derived.

MARSHALLITES SHOW LOVE

A total of 140 pints of blood were given for others' lives on December 12, 1975 in the fifth annual blood drive here at school. Under the advice of Miss Joy Wittchow were co-chairpersons Jodi St. John, 12, and Beth Schumacher, 11, whose preparations included an auditorium program which discussed donating procedures and removed any doubts from misinformed minds. Also, representatives went to junior and senior homerooms to explain the program and pass out registration slips to those interested. Marshall was the first public school in the city to hold such a program.

THREE CHEERS FOR THE SILENT MINORITY

The Deaf Department, headed by Miss Chrysoula Mathis, has expanded its program with the addition of new teachers Mr. Cliff Rieger, and Ms. JoAnn Corrao. Extra activities for deaf students were also introduced. Among these were a basketball team, coached by Mr. Dennis Arn, and cheerleaders for these games, supervised by Mrs. Sue Young.

The basketball team played its games at Marshall and at St. John's School for the Deaf. Practices were held either before school, or during lunch. Cheerleaders practices were also held before school.

A new Sign Language course, taught by Mrs. Ruth Slavata, was introduced to Marshall. It was for hearing students who wished to communicate with the deaf. Although reasons for taking the course were varied, the main purpose was to be able to relate to another minority. Margaret Ricci, 12, stated, "I thought it would be interesting, and I plan to go into Special Education."

Many students felt the signs were not too difficult to learn, if practice was kept up. The students learned the signs, among other ways, through interviewing deaf students, and sitting in on deaf students classes.

BELOW: The devils materialize above ground to confiscate Cabe. Stone

The humorous death of an old, cruel man was presented by the Jr. High players of John Marshall on January 16th, under the supervision of Mr. Bruce Guenthner. The play was "Cabel Stone's Death Watch." In the wee hours. Cabel's family was called to his bedside where they wondered how much money the old goat was going to leave each one of them. Greed, along with many accusations against each other was brought out by the invisible devils Freddie, Jim, and Harpo who had come to take the poor old soul of Cabel Stone to its final resting place.

Anyone who didn't happen to see the play missed an excellent production, an amusing night, and a grand performance by the Jr. High Players.

In addition to the recognition, students in this society have opportunities to receive scholarships. Usually two members are nominated for national competition. This year's nominees were Steven Weinshel and Iodi St. John, chosen for their character and leadership ability. MACHINE MANIACS "DE-BUG" MARSHALL

Are computers slowly taking over our world? There are so many ordinary jobs that can be done by man which eventually are outdone by computers and machinery! Some people, though inexperienced in com-plex programs, will tell you that simple computers are easy to understand and fun to use. Aaron and Paul Sigmund are two such people who felt that "Mr. Villasenor's classes usually made learning fun." Stu-dents enrolled in this course learned the history and basics of computer programming and did "everything from playing poker to carying Pi to 240 places" on the terminals. Mr. Villasenor has given his students a wide variety of field trips to choose from including some very informative tours at the larger computer terminals in Milwaukee for those who were interested in this field as a future vocation. This class needs kids with serious interests because as Kevin O'Brien, Senior, says, "Some kids think Computer Concepts is just a place to play games, but it isn't. This was one of the most unique and fun mathematics course offered at school

During the week of January 26-30. Marshall relived the 20's through to the 60's during Nostalgia Week. Each morning the announcements contained trivia depicting the decade being honored. Myers took first place in the wheelbarrel race. Junior Linda Struckmeyer and Seniors Scot Mortier and John Adams pushed a piece of coal around the cafeteria to win in that escapade.

Friday was 50's day, and many students came to school dressed for the occasion. Long skirts, bulky sweaters, and greased-back hair invaded the halls during the day, and students hopped to 50's music in the gym at night. A disc jockey from WZUU was on hand to host the Sock Hop, which was a nifty end to an exciting week.

Although a slight tragedy had occured on the Monday before opening night, this year's musical "Hello Dolly" went on to become a great success. Dave Miller, the male lead, injured his foot during a dress rehersal, and to the shock of every ticket holder and member of the cast, returned to school the next day on crutches. But handicapped or not, "the show must go on," so Dave and Dolly, played by Sophomore Pam Benson, performed at their best on Friday, March 26, and Saturday, March 27. It was nice to see Dave back where he belonged - on his feet — to save the musical.

For the first year at Marshall, a professional choreographer, Rozanne Campbell, was on hand to aid Mr. Robert Beduhn and Mr. Bruce Guenthner in the production. The pit orchestra, featuring Mrs. Barbara Nevers on the piano, the Concert Choir, and Stage, Make-Up and Costume Crew were also commended of an excellent performance.

FADS WERE FASHIONABLE

ABOVE: LaDonn Swan knew the power of a well coordinated shirt and sweater in dressing up a pair of jeans CENTER: A sweater and comfortable jeans proved to be this girl's way of showing her identity to others

The year 1976 proved to be one of comfortable individuality in the way students wore their clothing. With so much emphasis on nostalgia, skirt hems fell to the knee and matching sweater sets were accented by casually tied neck scarves. Guys took off on a dressier look by adopting the silky California shirt and masculine neck chains. Not forgotten were the classic worn-out jeans, often patched or embroidered in creative designs and colors, and topped with "deco art" tee shirts. Hairstyles ran from smooth, short cuts all the way to longer, layered looks, of which most were kept neat and clean.

Some of the most popular things to talk about were varied from the sensational "Jaws" to the more controversial desegregation program in Milwaukee, Teens took an avid interest in mood jewelry, disco dancing, martial arts, dating traditions and going steady, the abortion issue, and senior plans for the future.

A group of shivering wet swimmers posed anxiously behind the thin blue curtain which separated them from the still applauding audience outside. They had just finished in two minutes what took several weeks to create; a musically syncronized swimming story. The tension and laughter put into practices had all been worth it! This year's show was more of a cultural experience than anything else previously tried. Mythology, or "Greek fairy tales" as one girl named them, tried to make people more aware of the ancient world's ties to today.

May 13, 14, and 15, 1976.

were the evenings on which Catalina Club presented "A Splash With The Mystical Gods." Seniors Lynn Unrath, president, Stacie Sawicki, vice president, and Junior Debbie Elmer, secretary, teamed together to organize the board of directors who wrote the 14 numbers of the program. Also with the help of a club member. Andi Neils, the girls were able to portray accurately characters such as Pandora, Apollo, and Neptune, king of the sea. Many thanks went to Miss Sally McLevitch for her support and friendship during the year of 1976 with the Catalina swimmers.

'76 — A YEAR REMEMBERED WELL

The senior class of '76 lived up to the expectations of all — they came alive in spirit. The graduating class gave Marshall a fresh, lively personality through their many vivacious activities. By performing imaginative stunts and setting new trends for their underclassmen, the seniors left unremovable impressions, allowing themselves to leave the school assured that the "Spirit of '76" would roam Marshall forever.

A year of changes was met head on by the Sr. Class of '76. They were shaken out of comfortable niches and familiar routines. Yet, they offered opinions and ideas to make the changes better for all, the importance of which soon became clear; The class wished to be remembered as one that strove and achieved. Their achievements were sought for and reached in sports, dramatics, committees, clubs and the arts. Through the various activities the faculty and students united. As adults ready to face their future the Bicentennial Class of 1976 will always carry the memory of their years at John Marshall, for they wouldn't have missed it for the world.

Coached by Kurt Rollman, the 1975 baseball team finished second to city champs Custer with a 14-6 record.

Three players were chosen for the All-City team: outfielder John Kersey, catcher Steve Cummings, and second baseman Kent Hall.

Many new school records were set by the players. The new records were batting, .319; stolen bases, 79; hits, 180, homeruns, 8; and triples, 9. The new high for homeruns was 4, set by Brian Klabunde.

"We hope to put it all together next year and win the championship", remarked Coach Rollman.

Finishing with an 11-3 record, the 1975 golfers took fifth place in the city meet.

Coach Bruggink said this of the team, "I was very happy with the results in the Blue Meet Season. When we played Custer, we only had an outside chance but we won."

Among the season's highlights were an upset victory against Custer, and a come from behind victory against Tech.

Two letter winners are re turning next season. I hope we can improve on our record next year as we did this year," said Coach Bruggink concerning the teams' future.

Plagued by inexperience, the racketmen finished the season with a 12-14 record. Five of these defeats were lost in extra sets.

Led by outstanding senior Dave Melichar and captain Art Anderson, the team was out of fourth place on the North Side by five games.

"The season served as an excellent building year," commented Coach Oliver.

One of the highlights of the season was when the team took two points from Riverside East, knocking them out of second place.

Starting off with a slow indoor season didn't stop our track team from winning in later competition. The team finished strong by tying for the city championship with South. Coach Verbick summarized the season by saying, "We could be compared to fine wine—we got better with age."

The team's best individual event men were Mike Ford, Mike Bonfiglio, Kevin Sommers, Brett Dames, Joe Metejka and Tony Washington.

"Next season looks bright in the same events as last season," said Coach Verbick "With a few new surprises, Marshall could be a real challenge for city and state honors again."

Marshall gets a quick start at the Marshall Invitational

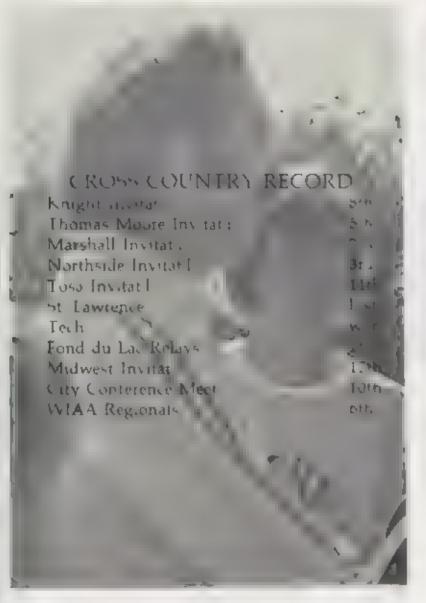

Even though this year's Striders placed tenth in the City Meet, the season had plenty of encouraging notes. These included an outstanding group of underclassmen. Five of the seven varsity runners were sophomores or juniors. "The development of our younger runners, especially sophomores, has me anxious for next season to begin," stated Coach Kurtz.

The team was led by Dave Kusky, Chris Bartlein, Paul Charlier, Dennis Walker, Ed Braza, Harold Cook and Mark Gardner.

The 1975 Girls Swimming Team made an outstanding performance. They won all of their Conference meets, placed second in the city relays, and second in the City Championships. Under the direction of Miss Sandra Sabbath, the 400 free style relay team of Carol Martin, Debbie Elmer, Lynn Ziolkowski, and Lynn Unrath took first in the city relays, breaking the old record. Though they had hard competition against many suburban schools, they finished eighth in Sectionals.

"Although many fans and supporters of the Marshall team were disappointed when we did not return to Madison for a repeat of last years performance, I personally feel this was a very satisfying and rewarding season," commented Coach Sherry concerning the teams loss to Washington in the first round game of the regionals.

Before losing to Washington in the regionals, the cagers had a 16-2 conference season record, good enough to share the City title with Custer.

Much of this years success belongs to co-captains Dan Elmer and Dave Ziesman. These two bucketmen have led the Eagles to many victories throughout the season.

Advisor Mr. Thomas Marx was always present 7th hour with his large entourage of editors, staff, and photographers. All were desperately rushing to meet their upcoming deadlines. Editor-in-chief Barb Ausloos and Managing Editor Sue Lux helped make it a success. The staff, in many long hours of hard work, designed a memorable yearbook for this Bicentennial year.

Marshall students had the opportunity to express themselves through several different publications.

This year's newspaper staff, headed by Co-editors-in-chief Jane O'Hara and Mario Rinaldi. has proven Marshall's newspaper one of the best school papers in the city. Under the direction of Mr. Towle, the reporters and staff met daily 7th hour to interview students for unusual stories, make the layouts for the paper and surprise many people with the zany photographs found in every edition. It was not uncommon to find the whole staff working long hours to be on time for every bi-weekly deadline. The supreme newspaper was made a success by all the dedicated efforts put forth by the 1975-76 Gavel Newspaper Staff.

Chrysalis was another example of Marshall's artistic spirit.

Now in its fourth year of publication, it is edited twice each year under the direction of Mrs. Sally Gunerman. All students were invited to submit poetry, prose, photographs and artwork for publication. Names were removed from the material submitted and assigned a code number. After reviewing the work, the staff voted to determine which materials would be printed. Their creative work made Chrysalis one of the best literary magazines in the city.

The Business Staff, under the advisorship of Mr. Fred Winter, was another crew of hardworking girls. With the indispensable leadership of Business Manager Barbara Boehme, the staff handled much of the behind-the-scene work conducting subscription drives and distribution of the Gavel Annual, Gavel Newspaper, and other publications.

DEMOCRACY PURSUED

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS - Dale Blank, Joanne Prekop, Jean Bachman Linda Struckmeyer

The Student Council, under the direction of Miss Mrvosh, had a most democratic year. President Dale Blank tried to break the popular image of Council Representitives. To counteract this situation, a new plan of action was taken up and carried out. For the first time, nonelected students were allowed to attend meetings. Thus, the entire student body had a chance to be equally represented.

The Student Council was especially proud of its gift of two Bicentennial flags for the main doors as this was the first gift ever given by the Council to the school.

Monitors are students who devote their study halls to helping people in the office by doing a variety of jobs. Office Monitors, under the direction of Mrs. Vicki Maas, delivered call slips, worked the switchboard, and checked students in and out of school. Guidance Monitors, under Mrs. Patricia Prpish, ran errands, did filing, and were right hands to many of the counselors. Administrative Monitors are chosen by the administrators to run errands, answer phones, and take messages. Directed by Mrs. Mildred Davis, the Tardy Monitors were active filling out, filing, and processing tardy forms.

Among Concert Choirs' activities for the year were singing in the winter and spring concerts, appearing in the musical, "Hello Dolly" and other school events. Members were selected in this way: Girls from Girls Chorus and boys from Mixed Chorus. The year was highlighted by the annual caroling through the halls at Christmas time and a trip to St. Louis, Missouri to sing at high schools there.

The Girls' Chorus is the final training ground for Concert Choir. The 40 girls participated in the Christmas program and the spring and winter concerts. The chorus is open to girls in grades 9 through 12. They must have had some basic training and have obtained efficiency in sight reading.

Under the new direction of Mr. Ken Kalfas, the John Marshall Senior Band had a very productive year. Parades, pep rallies, concerts, and halftime shows were among the many activities which the band engaged in. During the football season, intricate maneuvers were practiced early before school. The end results were beautiful halftime shows. The Spring and Winter Concerts again shows the versitility of our outstanding band.

There are about 900 chapters in the United States and once a year they meet in a national math contest

Mr. Wanzerski and Mr. Steurmer were the advisors for the Jr. High and Sr. High Math Teams. Teams of eight students each, from schools all over the city met three times this year and engaged in both individual and team tests in math. Marshall provided excellent competition for the other schools. In order to be on a team, a student needed his teacher's recommendation and had to show an interest in math. Students were very enthusiastic about joining, resulting in an outstanding turn out for the teams.
